The republicans took the opposite view of the case, and nominated Robertson for lieutenantgovernor. As he was the only candidate he received all the votes cast at the polls, and the republican state canvassing board reported Mr. Robertson duly elected. When the legislature met the rejoint ballot for United States senator, with two or three independents voting by themselves, and it was known that in case Robertson was seated he would cast the deciding vote, which fact made the democrats doubly anxious to prevent his ten days of the election. installment in the office. After a long contest, lasting until Feb. 2, a member who had been "on the fence" fell over into the democratic camp and and threatened a contest before the

The laws of Indiana were not, as said in the outset, explicit upon this point, but the democrats' contention has been sustained wherever it has been brought to an issue. Had Gen. Harrison thought the election of Judge Turpie illegal he would have considered it his duty to enter a contest in the United States senate. where, the majority being of his own party, he would have had odds in favor of unseating the democrat. Gen. Harrison very evidently conceded the legality of Judge Turpie's election.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

In debate on the Panama canal question in the senate, a week ago, Mr. Tellier, of Colorado, expressed the opinion that the resolution enunciating the Monroe doctrine was not timely, but that it should have been proposed and adopted years ago; that the people of France, whose money had been invested in canal stock to the amount of $300,000,000, would require their government to take up the work where De Lesseps is leaving off, in order that they might not lose

REGISTRY AND ELECTIONS.

Councilman William M. Thompson, of Deer Lodge county, has declared himself in favor of a registration law fer the publicans and democrats were tied on territory. Mr. Thompson recognizes some of the imperfections of the bill which was before the last legislature, and, among other things, suggests as an amendment that the registration books be not closed until within two weeks or Madisonian: We expect to see a strong impetus given to the mining industry in Madison county during the coming season. There are several districts which promise a revival in this direction, both in quartz and placer mining. A railroad through the county, too, is among the possibilities. Should one come, it will make gaia times for miners. for miners.

New Idea: There is a rumor affoat that the benevolent people of our sister town of Grantsdale are talking of erecting a college. We are really glad of it and consider the enterprise worthy in every respect. This valley could well support a college if the people would unite. The proposition of unity, however, is a case of large previousness.
